

THE ADVOCATE.

HARRIS & MASON, Proprietors.

MT. STERLING, TUESDAY, NOV. 17, 1891.

FOR PRESIDENT.
GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
JOHN C. CARLISLE,
Of Kentucky.

Breadstuffs to the amount of $24,803,334 were exported from the United States during October.

Cincinnati, Newport and Covington have twenty-seven breweries, and they are all to consolidate. A protest is now in order from those who rash the growler, against this proposed trust.

It is said some members-elect of the Legislature who have been to Frankfort to make arrangements for their stay there, report that they will have to pay more for board than they will receive as salary.

Asbury Bailey is experimenting with watermelons with a view to getting a variety that will delay its ripening until the November elections. If he succeeds, his fortune is made, and the whole Republican party in Kentucky will rise up and called him blessed.—[Adairville Times.

The Democrats of New Orleans elected delegates to the convention for the nomination of State officers. Ex-Governor McEnery carried the city by 11,000 majority. The opposition, composed of anti-lottery elements, supported F. L. Adams, President of the Farmers' Alliance, of Louisiana.

A delegate to the Farmers' Alliance Convention at Elizabethtown wanted to know if a person under twenty-one years of age could hold office in the Alliance under the new Constitution of Kentucky. The new Constitution was very largely made to order for the Alliance, but the instrument fails to cover this point after all.—[Courier-Journal.

A squad of police headed by Inspector Hubbard, made the Chicago anarchists display the American flag at their memorial meeting in that city Wednesday night. For a while it looked as if there would be a riot. Mrs. Lucy Parsons was present, and used all her lung power to have the officers murdered by the red-flag blatherers, but cool-headed policemen and a few prudent men in the audience prevented bloodshed.

Max O'Rell does not believe in the typical American man, but is very sure that the American woman is very typical. "In England you will see John Bull leading the way," he writes. "Mock and demure, with her eyes cast down, follows Mrs. John Bull. In France you will see Monsieur and Madame arrive together, talking and smiling at each other, though married. Equal footing. But in America! Oh, in America, behold the dignified, nay, the majestic entry of Mrs. Jonathan, a perfect queen going toward her throne, bestowing a glance on he subjects right and left, and—Jonathan behind."

Donn Piatt, the well-known editor and newspaper writer, died at his home near Cleveland, Ohio, Tuesday last. He was a power in the land in his day. While he could be as tender as a woman when he desired it, he could as well be as bitter and as vindictive as any man who ever handled a pen, if an adversary called forth his ire. He was a Democrat of the old school, and grandly would he support the principles of the party to which he had pinned his faith. As a newspaper correspondent he was probably without a peer, unless, indeed, McCullough, Redfield and Townsend may be classed with him.

There must be something in the Harst Home Insurance Company, after all, since a simple announcement in the papers by the General Agent, that they proposed to begin work in this county, caused the agents of the capital companies to write several columns at a cost of several dollars, and, after failing to down Prof. Harst with the pen, to appeal to the Insurance Bureau to protect them from these farmers. We predict that this company will be a failure, also. This company is not doing business for profit, but solely for protection, while the insurance laws were organized to protect the people from these speculators and not to protect the people from the people.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Six of the get of Axtell will be trained on the Terre Haute track next season.

The dam of Hal Pointer and two sisters to Brown Hal have been booked to Direct.

Electioneer has now 91 in the 2:30 list and more coming. He has put in 34 this year.

But one two-year-old colt Birchwood, by Nutwood, stepped a mile at Independence the other day in 2:18.

C. W. Williams has received a Caffrey sulky made to order for Allerton, which weighs but thirty-nine pounds.

Electioneer was bred to but one daughter of George Wilkes and one daughter of Nutwood. The produce was Adviser, 2:16, and Arion, 2:10, m-patively.

Monroe Salisbury, Pleasanton, Cal., has bred more 2:15 performers than any other breeder. They are Direct, (p), 2:06; Margaret S., (4), 2:12; Homestake, 2:14, and Luens, 2:14.

Director's oldest colts are but six years old, and of the lot he has ten trotters and two pacers in the 2:30 list, while four of the trotters and one of the pacers have records better than 2:20.

The American Trotter says: "California holds the yearling, two-year-old, four-year-old, five-year-old and world's trotting records; Iowa holds the stallion record, and Kentucky holds—its breath."

Arion, the best colt ever foaled, has reduced the two-year-old record to 2:10. The way he is lowering his mark at each trial, the stallion record seems almost in reach of this wonderful son of Electioneer.

The records of 1891 are almost countless. To date sixteen trotters have entered the 2:15 list, while 102 trotters and 61 pacers have entered the 2:20 list. Nearly 1,200 trotters and pacers have entered the 2:30 list.

Marcus Daly, the multifold millionaire of Montana, is what some people would term horse-mad. He believes Montana will produce as good horses as Kentucky or California, and proposes to invest $1,000,000 in the breeding and development of trotters and runners.

When Electioneer's first colts came at Palo Alto a number were ensuected. Every one that was left entire has proven a sire of 2:30 performers. Clay, 2:25, was one Palo Alto people were certain before the rest, but now that the first of his progeny, Hazel, has made a record of 2:28 in Stockton, there will be a large number to follow suit.

The interesting fact is noted that Delmar, by Electioneer, that took a record of 2:20 at the Lexington meeting, met with an accident in his two-year-old form by which he cut a tendon square off on his left hind leg. He was then owned by John Madden, who after the accident sold him to W. E. Spier, of Glen Falls, N. Y. Delmar was this year started in six races in the 2:30 class and has finally entered the 2:20 list.

The new 2:20 performers of the year are divided among the trotting families as follows: The Wilkes family with 27, the Behout with 10, the Electioneer with 7, the Almost with 4, the Woodford Mambrino with 4, the Strathmore with 4, the Dictator with 3, the Pilot Jr. and Egbert with 3 each. The fact that of the sixty-seven new 2:20 performers not one has a thoroughbred mare for a dam, is also worthy of note.

It is not generally known that the two-year-old champion Arion came very near being owned in Cleveland by J. E. French. The story runs in this vein: A year ago Mr. French asked J. C. Sibbey, who was then on his way to California, to pick out a colt by Electioneer, for him. After a time he heard from Mr. Sibbey, the latter's selection being a bay colt by Electioneer, out of Manette, and the price $2,500. It took Mr. Lathrop some time to get down to that figure, and finally an option was secured until Mr. French saw the youngster. While Mr. French was on his way to California the future champion injured one of his hind ankles, and when the would-be purchaser saw her he hesitated about giving $2,500 for a yearling with a big ankle. The sale was not made. The colt remained at Palo Alto and now has a two-year-old record of 2:14.

Will buy choice of twenty different colors of All-Wool Kersey Overcoats—every one a gem. We have made a special effort to place these coats on the market at that price, and you will find them excellent values. There is not one in the entire lot that you can buy elsewhere for less than from $13 to $15 and are satisfied that you will be pleased with the quality, style and price. Do not be led off by false goods. No doubt there will be imitators who will advertise just as good an overcoat for $9.75 or $9.87, but do not be deceived: AS GOOD AN OVERCOAT AS WE OFFER CAN'T BE PRODUCED FOR LESS MONEY.

THERE IS NO MISTAKE ABOUT IT!

We have the best boot in the market. This is a broad assertion, but we honestly believe that there never was a lot of boots in this section of the country as good as our "OAK TAN COARSE-FINE BOOTS." There are hundreds of our customers who have bought them that believe the same way. If you have't tried a pair, now is your chance. Come and examine them.

Announcement Extraordinary!

C. W. CARPENTER,

MASONIC TEMPLE,

BEGAN ON

Saturday Morning, October 31,

A GRAND PEREMPTORY

Closing-Out Sale!

OF HIS MAGNIFICENT STOCK

To Quit Business In Mt. Sterling.

The intention is to clear out the goods in the several departments in as short a time as possible, and prices are not to stand in the way. There will be no auction sales whatever, but the sacrifice will be even greater at retail across the counter.

It will be the opportunity of a life-time to buy goods at wholesale, and even less than wholesale prices. The goods are to be sold and the business closed at once. You can't afford to miss it, but should lay in your supplies now, for present and future use.

When he is gone the prices for first-class Dry Goods will be put up to the old figures prevailing when he came, ten years ago.

All store fixtures will be for sale. Gas machine and gas fixtures, stoves, tables, show cases, shelving, desks, safe, cabinet, wall paper racks, etc., etc.

This announcement will be a surprise to some, but the move has been carefully considered and the resolution is taken is final and absolute.

C. W. Carpenter,

MASONIC TEMPLE.

THE ADVOCATE.

CATTLE AND DAIRY NOTES.

Good feeders are eagerly inquired after.

Montana's sales of cattle this year amounts to $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

When the milk is drawn, take it out of the stable or cow yard at once.

The cow appreciates a comfortable place in winter and so does the milker. The Cherokee Strip is now free cattle, except those belonging to the Cherokees.

If milk is contaminated bad butter and cheese must be the result. Hence the necessity of cleanliness.

Where roots have been fed for years, the silos has not yet got a foothold. Roots will not, to say the least.

The Home, Land & Cattle Co., of St. Louis recently sold 358 head of 1,142 pound wintered Texas cattle at $4.25.

There is no profit in breeding a blue-blooded calf and then allowing it to wander around a straw stack all winter.

A cow that jumps fences needs attention, but not as much in the way of jokes, blunders, knee baulds, etc., as plenty of food.

And now there is a chance for our hoes in Austria. On with the gate openings, let the great American porker be unconquered!

Don't spare the knife on any animal that will have a tendency to lower the standard of your herd rather than to improve it.

While it is best always to push the fattening, there is nothing gained by feeding stock at any time, more than they will eat up clean.

A cow that cares nothing for ordinary fences is a mis-sure, while the corn field holds out much better promises than the cow pasture.

All along the line of production the principle will hold good that quality governs price and that profit is found only in producing the best.

The question of "dehorning" cattle is greatly agitated among stockmen, ranchmen, and all who have charge of the animals in life.

Somebody talks of scrub feed. Truly, exceedingly timely. Scrub feed has made many a scrub scrubber than she need have been.

A bunch of steers that are all about the same size and color, catch the eye of a dealer much more readily than if the animals are of all sizes and colors.

Market the scrub bull this fall, and arrange to commence breeding with a pure-bred of some of the better breeds. Scrub hogs, cattle or horses do not pay.

It is the cascade left in the butter that causes it to sour and spoil. Remove all of the cascade and pure butter will keep sweet and fresh indefinitely, it protected from the air.

Choice beef cattle that are considerably above the average quality can always be sold at a very good price a short time before the holidays. But they must be in prime condition.

The cow that the farmer wants is one that will yield him a good profit with ordinary care. He has no disposition to put a cow to bed and tuck her in, or to feed it on gravel.

The man who complains that his cows are unruled can safely be set down as a poor farmer, and very often he is a cruel one, who deserves punishment. Most unruly cows are made so by hunger.

One good and effectual remedy to remove warts is to wait until she is dry, then wash them thoroughly with a solution of sal ammoniac and camphor, before she becomes fresh they will have entirely disappeared.

There will be a vast deal of cattle feeding done on a small scale in Nebraska and Kansas this fall and winter. Every farmer who can fatten them from five to one hundred cents will be hunting for feeders. So says the Northwestern Stock Journal.

It is easy enough to make any human man's heart ache to note how the average farmer raises his calves; not one calf in a hundred has a fair chance for itself, says Hoard's Dairyman. The burning sun on their tender, thin skins, tormented with flies, given no food whatever that their baby stomach can digest and assimilate, they advertise the stupid inhumanity of the owner.

Shiftless Tricks for a Farmer.

To plant more acres than can be taken care of.

To work with poor tools and to sow poor seed.

To buy at public sales what is not needed, because it sells cheap.

It is shiftless to keep poor stock. A poor cow eats as much as a good one.

To allow the hogs and sheep to wander at their own sweet will over their owner's and his neighbor's premises.

To let the cattle fodder themselves at the haystack. It saves a little labor, but the waste will make their owner poor.

To leave tools of any kind lying out in the weather; to put them away uncleaned, or to loan them to shiftless or careless neighbors.

To turn the cattle out into the bare fields in cold weather when there is nothing for them to eat there, and they lose flesh shivering in the cold.

It is shiftless to allow weeds to occupy any portion of the farm, and very shiftless to allow bushes to occupy several rods of ground along the fence rows.

To plant an orchard and then to allow cattle to browse the trees; to leave vacant places in a young orchard; to allow a young orchard to remain in grass.

To wade through mud to the barn and outbuildings when good dry paths can so easily be made. To pay heavy doctor's bills for wife and children because their feet became wet through lack of good paths.

To have no garden and to buy staple vegetables of a huckster. It is nearly as bad to have a miserable little garden, which the good wife and girl painfully weed, and secure a few stunted vegetables, when large crops could be had with little trouble, if the garden was cultivated by horse power.—G. G. Groff, in American Agriculturist.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all malarial fevers.—For cure of headache, constipation and indigestion try Electric Bitters.—Entire satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.—Price 50 cts. and $1.00 a bottle at W. S. Lloyd's drug store.

One of the commonest and most stupid faults seen in stock raising is the semi-starvation of young animals, particularly calves and colts. With good care their growth is more cheaply obtained than at any other time of life, and young animals are almost sure, with ignorant farmers, to be raised on a diet that prematurely dwarfs them for life.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. W. S. Lloyd, druggist.

A new terror of courtship has been developed at Anderson, Ind., in the case of Miss Emma Bowers, a winsome brunette. For some days she has suffered from a supposed attack of pleurisy, but when Dr. S. F. Bordman was called he found that one of the young lady's ribs was broken. After much questioning, the girl blushingly admitted that her beau, George Gerrick, had inflicted the injury while giving her his usual tender embrace before parting last Friday night.

At this season of the year people can not be too careful about keeping their bowels regular. Bilious and malarial diseases are often brought on by allowing the bowels to become torpid. An occasional dose of St. Patrick's Pills is all that would be required, and might prevent serious sickness. For sale by T. G. Julian.

A novel sight was witnessed last week in this city, the lanceous cause of which was the triplets of Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, of this county. Mrs. Mason had brought the little ones, all boys, to have their pictures taken by Mr. Schlegel, and it was in the latter's gallery that the Register on Wednesday was permitted to get a glimpse of the photographs. The little fellows were born on Nov. 6, 1890, and hence were one year old on Friday last. Their names are Alexander, Robert and Franklin. They are all blondes, are healthy, and not a particle of trouble to their parents. Their father is a son of Mr. Rankin Mason, a well known citizen of this county. Their mother was Miss Sarah Cornelison, daughter of Mr. Alex. Cornelison, also a prominent farmer. Mr. and Mrs. Mason have five other children.—[Richmond (Ky.) Register.]

An Owensboro special to the Louisville Times of Nov. 11th, says: "The Inquirer this afternoon will announce the transfer of the stock held by C. C. Givens to Wm. Foor, W. L. Stone and E. E. Owsley, and his retirement from the management of the paper. The paper will be published by the new Inquirer Publishing Company, with A. J. Casey, Wm. Foor, Henry Mose, W. L. Stone and E. E. Owsley as stockholders. Its active management will be in the hands of Casey, Stone and Owsley, who, at a meeting last night, were elected President, Secretary and Treasurer, respectively. Stone has been associated with the paper for a year as general foreman, and Owsley for four years in numerous capacities. Givens will probably engage in other business in Morganfield after January 1.

J. M. Thomas, nothing daunted by his recent losses by fire, is erecting a larger planing mill in place of the one recently burned, at Ford. He is also adding another saw mill. Owing to low water and consequent scarcity of logs, but little sawing is being done there. The upper tributaries, however, are full of logs, and a small rise will bring them out. There is so great a demand for the product of these mills they are unable to prepare it for market fast enough, and are now 150 car loads behind.—[Winchester Democrat.]

A Tennessee writer says that an arrangement has been partially concluded to keep Direct in Tennessee next year at Ashwood, the stock farm of Messrs. Volk & Brown, in Maury county. Fifty mares are booked to him at $300, in the event the arrangement is consummated. Major Campbell Brown, proprietor of Exell farm, and one of the owners of Brown Hall, will contribute ten of these mares, and Mr. F. G. Infield four. They are said to be a richly bred lot and probably one-half of them producers. Mr. Salisbury, who seems supremely happy over Direct's success at this place, proposes, however, before retiring him to the stud to take him to California to pace a match race against Adonis, as Mr. Hickok thinks he can make the event interesting.

Report of County Superintendent.

District No. 8, Spencer—Reports 85 pupils, children; draws $192.11; a first-class district with a first-class teacher and one of the best working schools in the county; highest number, 58; lowest, 35; present, 45; a nice new school house near the church, and nearly all of the pupils attend the Sabbath school every Sabbath; there were fourteen bright little boys and girls in the chart class, and they all recited nicely; in this district such a thing as a tax is never called for; the patrons go down in their pockets and get out the amount of money needed; W. H. Squires is the teacher, and his school will continue nine months; Jas. Lockridge, Joseph Coons and J. C. B. Duff, trustees; all good men for the business.

Willoughby Institute, No. 30—Reports 56; draws $126.56; Miss Lillie Wilburn, the popular young teacher; her first school; has first-class qualifications, and is giving general satisfaction; this is a new district; a new house being built by the people of the district; they look upon it with a national pride; highest number in school, 32; lowest, 13; present, 18; the trustees, Green Martin, J. S. Willoughby and James Anderson, together with that over-zealous worker, Mr. W. W. W., deserve great credit for the founding of this Institute of learning.

District No. 13, Jeffersonville—Reports 112 children; draws $253.12; Miss Lillie P. Cooper, Breckinridge county, teacher, is very enthusiastic, and her work is indeed satisfactory to all; Miss Lillie is a very competent and experienced teacher, and deserves much credit for what she is doing for these children; trustees, W. H. Hazelrigg, Albert Anderson and Campbell Gibson; all good school men, who seem to be proud of their school; house has been repaired some; everything that was needed; highest number in school, 84; lowest 22; present, 60; Miss Mary Davis, a pupil, assistant during first three months.

District No. 3, Siderview—Reports 72 children; draws from the State $102.72; Miss Sallie McDonough, a popular teacher, is very thorough and interesting in her work; the school this year is about such as these people always have, having settled the question long ago that none but first-class teachers need apply; highest number, 35; lowest, 22; present, 33; trustees, Geo. Denton, Patrick King and S. S. Priest, all of whom the teacher and the pupils would like to see occasionally.

Duff's District, No. 7—Reports 100 pupils, children; draws $226 from the State; highest number, 52; lowest, 35; present, 40; teacher, Miss Lela Anderson; her first school; very industrious and very anxious to succeed; patrons all pleased with the school; teachers, who seldom visit the school, are Dr. Pierce, Capt. I. D. Myers and A. Duff; house has been very much improved by private subscription; good blackboard and lots of good coal; district should buy new furniture next year.

Sweet mixed pickle in barrels at BARNES' Kentucky State Alliance.

Persuant to adjournment last year the annual State Alliance convened in Elizabethtown on November 10th. Hon. A. B. Montgomery, of Hardin county, delivered the welcome address, which was responded to by J. C. Roberts, of Tennessee. The body continued in session until noon Friday.

Contrary to the predictions of many and especially those of a part of the press, the meeting was an unusually harmonious one. Factions that might have caused any dissension, were promptly held at bay, and the wise, conservative element ruled serenely. Jars that are quite common to such meetings were not forthcoming. The most hopeful could not have desired a more harmonious meeting.

Among the distinguished visitors present were J. H. McDowell and J. C. Roberts, of Tennessee, Col. Powers, of Indiana, and "Stump" Ashby, of Ohio, all of whom made public speeches during the meeting.

President T. T. Gardner presided over the meeting, and his fairness in all of his rulings not only added to his already large host of friends, but added largely in preserving perfect peace.

In the election of officers, T. T. Gardner, of Ballard county was re-elected President; John G. Blair, of Nicholas county, Vice President, and Miss Mattie E. Quicksall, of Morgan county, Secretary. Miss Quicksall has been acting as Assistant Secretary for several months, by appointment, and her efficient work was highly complimented by her election to the position of Secretary. She very easily defeated six male candidates.

The office of Treasurer was abolished, and the Secretary was made Treasurer. The office of State Lecturer, as well as some other important offices, was also abolished. The lecturing is now to be done through the Congressional District Lecturers.

Many resolutions were passed, among the most important of which was one endorsing the Growers' Warehouse Association, of Louisville. The resolution was strong, and was carried unanimously. A resolution was also passed petitioning the Legislature to provide separate coaches for white and colored passengers.

Three delegates were elected to attend the national meeting, which convenes at Indianapolis this week. The meeting closed as harmoniously as it began, and the delegates returned home enthusiastic and highly pleased. It is now a well settled fact that the Alliance of Kentucky will not go into politics.

We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness, then the child appears to have taken cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the croup. The best time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy would prevent the attack. Even after the rough cough has appeared, the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. The only safe way is to keep a 50 cent bottle of the Remedy in the house for use when ever the symptoms of the disease appear. For sale by T. G. Julian.

Do Not Suffer Any Longer.

Knowing that a cough can be checked in a day, and the first stages of consumption broken in a week, we hereby guarantee Dr. Acker's English Cough Remedy, and will refund the money to all who buy, take it as per directions, and do not find our statement correct. T. G. JULIAN.

Colonel Clayton McMichael's Record as a Journalist and Man of Affairs—Colonel McMichael's Physical Vigor and Literary Power—Versatile John Russell Young.

If a Philadelphia were asked to point out three of the brightest lights in the journalistic profession in the Quaker City he would at once name Colonel Clayton McMichael, Colonel Alexander K. McClure and John Russell Young. There are half a dozen others who are well known abroad and at home, but the trio mentioned constitute a group of original, dashing and brilliant thinkers.

COLONEL CLAYTON MCMICHAEL.

There came to him no other titles than those of a citizen. All three are entertaining talkers and without any discredit to their editorial powers—still better writers. Each in his turn has enjoyed the confidence and friendship, and, in at least two cases, the affection of a president of the United States. Clayton McMichael through life has been rubbed against greatness and has met elbows with many master minds.

Colonel Clayton McMichael, the editor and proprietor of The North American, was once described as "the youngest editor of the oldest daily." That was some years ago—not so many either. He is still in the prime of a vigorous manhood, but the silver threads are beginning to appear here and there. Colonel McMichael is a "working" journalist in the fullest sense of that frequently misused term. He generally reaches the North American office about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It is not until the state house bell has tolled the hour of 9 in the morning that he finally leaves his sanctum. He has two "clerks" (this is in the first floor, in the rear of the business office). He generally receives visitors there during the afternoon. The other is in the sky parlor of the building, where he does his writing in the evening.

Colonel McMichael is a man of pleasing address. A stranger is at once struck with his ease and grace and gentlemanly manner. He talks sincerely and vigorously, and has an euphuistic style of expressing himself that can leave no doubt as to what he means to say. He has what are sometimes called "speaking eyes." When his gaze first rests upon you it seems to penetrate through and through, but just about the time you are considering the advisability of re-creating the eyes, light comes with a kindly and reassuring glance and you feel that you are at home and with a friend.

The last time ex-President Cleveland visited Philadelphia, some one mentioned the name of McMichael. Instantly the ex-president exclaimed: "Tut! Colonel McMichael I was seeing about his. That's the fellow who has my very best regards." Thereby hangs a tale which our acquaintance with him at the annual annual conference of the United States, a judge so unpartial of the matter of Columbia, President Arthur, who has himself been aptly described as "the first of the first of the first," when he selected Colonel McMichael for the post, selected a congenial gentleman who was also his warm personal friend. The best of the material of the dispatch at that time was passed to a place that it had never reached before and that it has never returned since. When Mr. Cleveland assumed the presidency he found Colonel McMichael's resignation on his desk. He refused to see it and asked as a favor that the material service on the resignation of his former master of a few let, and his writings exhibit a purity and finish that is very rare in newspaper work these days. He has the necessary knack of grasping a thought quickly. This was illustrated even in his youth. When Young was fifteen years of age the Press advertised for a "copy boy." There were fifty applicants. Each was given a half sheet of paper. For some time past he has been running a series of articles in The Star on "Men and Memories," giving his impressions and personal recollections of such outstanding people as Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Roscoe Conkling, Abraham Lincoln and Cardinal McCloskey. His success as United States minister to China is too well known for any extended comment, while his trip around the world with General Grant has become history.

Colonel McMichael lives in elegant style on West Walnut street. His is a house of social life and enjoys the theater. He has had a military career that any man would be proud of. He was twice wounded in battle. He is a host after those who are not, and a writer his productions are noted for their own, grace

HIS BOOKS WERE POPULAR.

The Great Vogue Enjoyed by the Late James Parton.

James Parton was beyond question the most popular literature of his time with the great middle class. At least 10,000,000 adult Americans never think of laboring through Bancroft and rarely look at Elmhurst, yet want something far better than school histories and sentimental sketches of their great men, such as the Weems biographies.

For all such Parton was an ideal writer. He wrote for the middle million, and he did it well. An Englishman by birth, he was as intensely American as any native in the land. His views on religion, he revealed in his most orthodox and while he wrote on such exciting subjects as slavery, war and the tariff were extreme even to the verge of fanaticism, he wrote biographies of Aaron Burr, Horace Greeley and Andrew Jackson that charmed men of all parties, destroyed all the old feuds and prejudices against Thomas Jefferson, and almost instantly, southerners in Ben Butler as a gentleman and philanthropist. What is equally remarkable, he violated some of the strongest social rules without losing credit, and wrote a eulogistic life of Voltaire without exciting the wrath of religious editors. The charm of his style and the evident sincerity in his expression account for it.

He was born in Canterbury, England, Feb. 9, 1822, and at the age of five was taken by his widowed mother to New York, got his education there and at White Plains, and then passed a year in the Old World, expending in the year a small legacy he had received in England. He taught school awhile in Philadelphia and New York, and while in the latter city wrote an analysis of the famous "Jane Eyre," demonstrating that it was the work of a woman. This essay he sent to The Home Journal, with many thanks. To his surprise, delight, as he tells us, it appeared in the next number of that paper, with editorial approval by N. P. Willis; he sought the latter's acquaintance and resolved to devote his life to literature.

His salary on The Home Journal was ten dollars per week for a long time, nor did he make any great success but he issued the "Life of Horace Greeley" in 1855. Thirty-five thousand copies were sold in the first "boom," and the work is still in some demand. In 1857 he issued the "Life and Times of Aaron Burr," in 1860 the "Life of Andrew Jackson," "Ben Butler in New Orleans" in 1868, and the "Life of Benjamin Franklin." Many minor works followed, and in 1873 his "Life of Thomas Jefferson" produced quite a sensation.

In 1881 he published his favorite, the book to which he had devoted all his leisure hours since boyhood, "The Life of Voltaire." This work was his labor of love. Voltaire was his hero. He had studied that author's works as no other American ever did. Of course, Voltaire, in his best work, but the general public has not yet taken hold of it as his biographies of eminent Americans.

In 1858 Mr. Parton married the lady whose pen name was Fanny Fern—Sarah Payson Willis, sister of N. P. Willis and widow of Charles S. Eldridge, of Boston. In 1872 she died, and a year or two later he married her daughter and his own stepdaughter, Miss Ellen W. Eldridge. Of course there was a "disunion." Discovering that the marriage in Massachusetts was illegal they removed to New York and had the ceremony performed again. On their return to Massachusetts there was a "complication." The legislature passed a law legalizing the marriage, but Governor Rice vetoed it. The New York marriage, however, was valid in both states. His second union was much happier than his first, and his children by that union are a boy and a girl, of fourteen and twelve years, respectively. He lived in Newburyport, Mass., after 1872 and was an active and valued citizen.

Published America's First Daily.

Mr. Timothy Burke, one of the publishers of the first daily paper in Athens, has recently died in that city of old age. He was born in County Clare, Ireland, in 1807, as is believed, and removed to America in 1834. After working in New York as a shoemaker he was a fellow countryman named Michael Lynch made a tour of the south, finally locating in Atlanta, where they remained friends THOMAS BURKE.
